

EMERGING GENRES IN SCHOLARLY COMMUNICATION

SCHOLARLY COMMUNICATION INSTITUTE

University of Virginia

July 14-16, 2010

Unless otherwise noted, all sessions will be held in the Harrison Institute/Small Special Collections Library. The Harrison Institute/Small Special Collections Library is located on McCormick Road, adjacent to Alderman Library, on the University of Virginia grounds.

Wednesday, July 14

Charlottesville's "Van on the Go" will provide transport to and from the Harrison Institute. Please meet your shuttle driver in the lobby of the Omni Hotel at 1:00 PM if you would like to come to the Harrison Institute early to set up wireless access. The vans will shuttle back and forth to pick up everyone for our 2:00 PM start time.

1:15 - 1:45

Optional

Pre-Institute technology assistance: Wireless Access Set-Up

2:00 - 2:45

Welcome and introductions

Karin Wittenborg, Diane Walker, Abby Smith Rumsey, Bethany Nowviskie

Participant introductions

Participants

2:45 - 3:15

Meeting roadmap

Abby Smith Rumsey

Meeting goals & expected outcomes

3:15 - 3:45

Break & refreshments

3:45 - 4:45

Emerging genres

Lightning presentations by participants

Shakespeare Quarterly: Katherine Rowe

Tibetan and Himalayan Digital Library: David Germano
Planned Obsolescence and MediaCommons: Kathleen Fitzpatrick
 Society of Architectural Historians digital publications: David Brownlee, Dianne Harris, and Pauline Saliga

Crowds: Jeffrey Schnapp
 AfricaMap: Suzanne Blier
 NINES: Laura Mandell, Bethany Nowviskie, and Andrew Stauffer
 Idelsohn Society for Musical Preservation: Josh Kun

Sound Design and Science Fiction: Bill Whittington
 Networking Visual Culture publication: Tara McPherson and Ellen Faran
 China Biographical Database: Peter Bol
 Reviewing Digital Portfolios at the MLA: Susan Schreibman
 Digital Humanities Now: Dan Cohen

4:45 - 5:30

Plenary discussion

What are the most significant genres of scholarly discourse in the digital environment?
 Who creates and sustains the discourse?
 Who are the audiences?

“Van on the Go” will provide transport back to the hotel and then offer a lift from the hotel to Orzo Kitchen & Wine Bar for dinner. Orzo is an easy walk down West Main Street, approximately one third of a mile from the hotel.

6:30 – 9:00

Cocktails and dinner

Orzo Kitchen & Wine Bar
 Main Street Market
 416 W. Main Street Charlottesville, VA
 (434) 975-6796

Thursday, July 15

“Van on the Go” will begin shuttle service to the Harrison Institute at 7:45 AM

8:00 – 9:00

Breakfast

A catered breakfast will be available at the Harrison Institute.

9:00 - 9:30

Introduction to day

Review of agenda and breakout topics on emerging genres

Abby Smith Rumsey

9:30 - 11:00

Breakout sessions

Groups will go to rooms in Harrison Institute and Scholars’ Lab

11:00 - 11:30

Break & refreshments

Refreshments

11:30 - 12:30

Plenary reporting and discussion

12:30 - 1:30

Lunch

A catered lunch will be available at the Harrison Institute.

1:30 - 3:00

Small table discussions

Based on outcomes from morning sessions, discussions will focus on developing reference models for various significant genres. A model embodies a shared understanding of the processes of scholarly production, from research through the publication and archiving stages. It helps to identify roles and responsibilities of those engaged.

3:00 - 3:30

Break & refreshments

3:30 - 4:30

Plenary reporting and discussion

“Van on the Go will provide transport back to the hotel and then offer a lift from the hotel to Fleurie French Restaurant for dinner. Fleurie is an easy walk off the Downtown Mall.

6:30 - 9:00

Cocktails & Dinner

Fleurie French Restaurant
108 3rd Street NE
Charlottesville, VA
(434)971-7800

Friday, July 16

“Van on the Go” will begin shuttle service to the Harrison Institute at 7:45 AM

8:00 - 9:00

Breakfast

A catered breakfast will be available at the Harrison Institute.

9:00 - 10:30

Emerging genres in the context of emerging infrastructure

Plenary discussion

Publishers, libraries, and IT comprise key infrastructure for scholarly publishing. What do these genres and reference models look like from their perspective?

10:30 - 11:00

Break & refreshments

11:00 - 12:00

Plenary discussion continues

Development of agenda for next steps and identification of leading actors

12:00

Lunch

Discussion continues over a catered lunch at the Harrison Institute.

“Van on the Go” shuttles will be available to return you to the Omni Charlottesville Hotel and the Charlottesville airport.